Cell Tower Trial

A group of neighbors attended the L.A. City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

A group of neighbors attended the L.A. City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.

City vs. Verizon trial at the Federal Court over the proposed Cell Tower at 2512 Robertson Blvd. The trial was more technically-focused on whether Verizon's current coverage is sufficient. The City had an expert on cell towers testify that Verizon's coverage was not only within the FCC's limits but independent tests showed high performance. The City attorney also made the point several times that Verizon's desire for coverage was based on their company's goals and not the parameters of the FCC. The trial was heard by a new Judge and we are awaiting his decision.
